Chesapeake Project

- ★ Two-year pilot digital preservation program
 - Maryland State Law Library
 - Virginia State Law Library
 - Georgetown University Law Library
- ★ Established to preserve and ensure permanent access to born-digital legal information
- ★ Under the auspices of LIPA
<http://www.aallnet.org/committee/lipa/>

What we collect

- ✦ Reports and studies relating to U.S. government and policy
- ✦ Publications issued by Virginia's judicial branch of government
- ✦ Materials relating to public policy and legal issues in the state of Maryland

Why elusive?

- ✱ Born digital publications disappear
- ✱ Added to web sites and then removed
- ✱ Hard to know what is added to a web site
- ✱ Hard to know what is deleted
- ✱ 404 errors-- “File not found”

How bad...

- ✦ For example...three top journals in journalism and communication
- ✦ Some 416 online citations over four years
- ✦ Most 40% no longer available

Bugeja, Michael, and Daniela V. Dirnitrova. 2005. "The Half-Life Phenomenon: Eroding Citations in Journals." Serials Librarian 49, no. 3: 115-123. Academic Search Complete, EBSCOhost (accessed April 27, 2009).

Our findings...

- ✦ First two years about 15% of links no longer worked
- ✦ Closer to 20% for Maryland state publications

But our patrons expect

- ✦ Easy to access
- ✦ Searchability
- ✦ Availability

Not always this way...

★ Old Model--Depository Programs

- ★ Centralized system
- ★ Agency's own print shop
- ★ Expensive--printed only the best
- ★ Kept copies
- ★ Sent copies to "depository" libraries
- ★ Hard copy on library shelf, stayed there

Enter the web...

- ✱ Decentralized model
- ✱ Easy to “publish” to the web
- ✱ Impossible to know when something is available online
- ✱ Thousands of “web sites”
- ✱ Huge variety of file formats
 - PDF
 - HTML
 - PowerPoint
 - Word

Libraries struggling with born-digital

☀ Preserving State Government Information initiative

National Digital Information Infrastructure and Preservation Program (NDIIPP) from Library of Congress
<http://www.digitalpreservation.gov/partners/states.html>

- ☀ Focuses on capturing, preserving and providing access to a rich variety of state and local government digital information

NDIIPP: Preserving State Government Information initiative Demo Projects

- ☀ PeDALS (Persistent, Digital Archives and Library System)
 - ☀ Arizona, Florida, New York, South Carolina, Wisconsin
- ☀ Multi-state Preservation Partnership Project
 - ☀ Washington, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Alaska, Colorado, Louisiana, Indiana, North Carolina, Nevada

Why we (Mary Jo & Katherine) care...

- ✦ It is our job as librarians to collect, preserve and provide access to the info our patrons need
- ✦ For MSL, state publications, particularly task force reports are critical sources of legislative intent
- ✦ Each day we are asked for these reports, some over 50 years old
- ✦ No choice, they must be collected

Reality check

- ✱ No desire to collect web sites
- ✱ No need to collect every publication
- ✱ Need to find the gold nuggets, the gems, the potentially critical publications

Decisions, decisions ...

☀ What to Collect

- ☀ Issues of collection development policies

☀ Where to store the collection

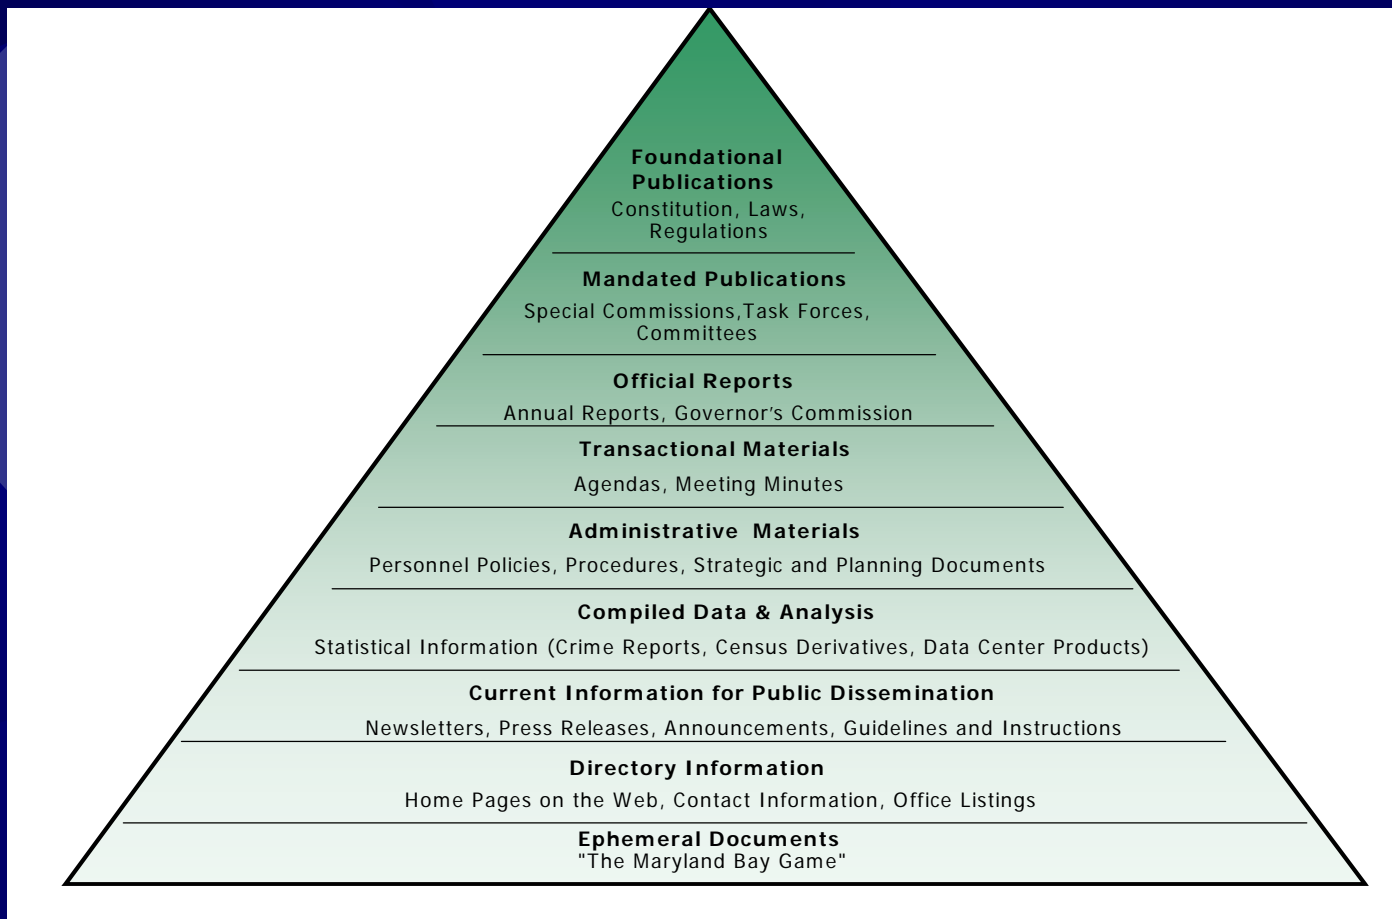

- ☀ Print v. Online

☀ How to Collect

- ☀ How do you find born-digital materials
- ☀ Harder than it seems

What to collect

- ☀ Create or use existing collection development policy

Where to store the collection?

- ✦ Make a copy
 - ✦ Store the digital
 - ✦ Do both?
- ✦ All require cataloging
 - MARC
 - Dublin Core
 - Homegrown
 - Community tagging

Print the publication

☀ Printing

☀ What we know best but issues of:

- Paper
- Space
- Shelving
- Binding
- Time-consuming
- Good preservation choice if:
 - Good printer and good paper

Online storage

★ Server

- In-house or hosted

★ Software

- Open source -Fedora, Dspace, Greenstone
- Commercial-ContentDM, PTFS, Olive
- Homegrown

★ Requires less time to “shelve” but

★ Preservation issues

- PDF, will it exist in 2040?

How to collect

☀ Time commitment, proactive approach

- 🔴 Watch that Page <http://www.watchthatpage.com/>

The screenshot shows the WatchThatPage.com interface. At the top, it says "Your monitor for changes on the web" and "WatchThatPage.com". Below this is a navigation bar with tabs for Home, Profile, Properties, Pages, Changes, and Logout. The main content area is titled "Your pages for channel Md Pubs" and includes buttons for "+ Add new channel", "Edit name", "Delete channel", and "What is a channel?". A message states: "Here are the pages you are tracking via WatchThatPage. You can, at anytime, add or remove pages. When you are adding pages, there might be a small delay as we are downloading the initial page from the server." Below this are two form fields: "Add page" and "Add folder", both with "Add" buttons. A "Your pages" section shows a list of folders: CONSTITUTIONAL OFFICES, DEPARTMENTS, GOV OFFICE, INDEPENDENT AGENCIES, JUDICARY, LEGISLATIVE, MUNICIPAL CODES, OTHER COMMUNITY & RESEARCH, and TASK FORCE & ADVISORY. On the right side, there is a yellow box titled "Add pages while s" and a list of status icons for pages.

Maryland State Publications

Visitors to the State Law Library will find one of the finest and most comprehensive collections of Maryland government publications in the State. The collection ranges from 19th Century reports of the State Oyster Commission, housed in the Library's Special Collections Room, to the latest agency digital publications, retained in OCLC through the Legal Information Preservation Alliance's "Chesapeake Project".

By statute, the Library operates as a depository member of the State Publications Depository and Distribution Program. The Library built this unique selection of Maryland agency publications using a variety of innovative methods, including cooperative networking with area libraries and e-mail alerts of changes to state agency web pages. In order to make the Library's print collection more accessible to users, it devised many years ago an exclusive call number system, patterned after the one for Federal government documents. For the Library user, this means that it is easy to scan the shelves for similar material produced by the same agency.

Additionally, the Library possesses an historic assortment of secondary sources about Maryland. Highlights include: history books about Maryland counties and towns, accounts of Maryland historical events, genealogical data on Maryland families and the Baltimore Sun, Maryland Daily Record and the Annapolis Capital on microfilm. The Library continues to collect Maryland history, especially as it relates to law and government.

The Library believes that its repository of Maryland government publications and historical materials gives additional meaning and context to its law collections. The Library welcomes researchers from all walks of life to explore the distinctiveness of these special resources.
